

Where to order heart-shaped food on Valentine's Day in Chicago

Local restaurants are offering some extremely cute Valentine's Day specials.

Sure, a heart-shaped pizza doesn't taste any different than a regular ol' pie. And the same goes for pasta, sushi platters and boxes of donuts. But it is a romantic way of showing your love on Valentine's Day. Luckily, several Chicago restaurants are celebrating the occasion with specially shaped dishes and packaging so that you woo your date with food that's both delicious and cute. Some of the following one-day offerings will sell out so act fast and order ahead if you don't want to miss out.

Gene & Georgetti

One of the quickest ways to someone's heart is through pasta, which is why iconic Chicago steakhouse Gene & Georgetti is making heart-shaped ravioli stuffed with blue crab and served with shrimp bisque sauce. The dish is part of the restaurant's Valentine's Day menu for two, priced at $275 per couple.
